COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY JUNE 29, 1910.

NUMBER 34

AN IMPRESSIVE WEDDING.

Miss Hattie Lewis, of this Place, Happily Married to Mr. L. W. Baldauf, of Louisville.

RELATIVES AND SPECIAL FRIENDS PRESENT.

Wednesday morning, June 22, at nine thirty relatives and intimate friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lewis to witness the beautiful and impressive ceremony that made Miss Hattie Lewis the bride of Mr. Leo Baldauf of Louisville.

The parlor was artistically decorated with potted plants around which were banked roses and sweet peas, the effect being made more beautiful by the soft rays of colored candles with which the room was lighted.

At the appointed hour to the strains of Mendelssohn's beautiful wedding march rendered by Mrs. C. M. Russell, the bride and groom entered from the hall, advanced to the center of the room where they were met by Rabbi Miller, of Louisville, who performed the ceremony in an impressive manner as if all were present with admiration for the beauty and richness of the Jewish rites and customs.

The bride an unusually pretty and attractive brunette, never looked prettier in her life than when in her bridal attire, a creation of lace and tulle with a train and to the full length of which hung her veil of white tulle which was fastened to her hair by clusters of lilies of the valley. She carried an immense shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The groom was dressed in conventional black.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lewis. She was born in Glasgow, Ky., but has spent a part of her life here, having grown up with her parents about twenty years ago. She has many friends and will be greatly missed.

Her young people regret her departure, but heartily commend her to the people of Louisville, where she will be very popular.

Her father is a prominent young man of Louisville, being one of the founders of Baldauf Coffee Co.

Immediately after the ceremony a beautiful wedding breakfast was served to a few relatives after which the happy couple left for Niagara Falls and other points of interest.

They will be in the East several weeks, and upon their return to Kentucky will remain in Owensboro a short while before going to their home in Louisville.

The news can truthfully say that a more prudent young lady never grew up in Columbia, and to her and the gentleman she has chosen as a companion for life, it extends its hearty congratulations.

Saturday Nights Storm.

Last Saturday night about 11 o'clock, a severe wind storm, accompanied by lightning, struck this place, and for one hour a great many people were considerably alarmed. The lightning struck Mr. Geo. W. Lowe's residence, but, providentially, Mr. and Mrs. Lowe were absent, the latter being at the home of her parents and the former at his shop on the square. If they had been at home the probabilities are that both would have been killed. The lightning entered the house on the telephone wire and played in every room of the building. The carpets, druggists, and many other articles in the dwelling were damaged, and there are dark streaks in all the rooms, showing the course of the lightning. Mr. and Mrs. Lowe were greatly surprised when they reached their home, after the storm, but they at once realized the cause of the disturbance, and came over to the Hancock Hotel, notifying Mrs. Lowe's parents, and where they remained during the rest of the night. Some other damage in the way of uprooting trees, burning out telephones, etc., was done in town.

Forty years bring about many changes. Last Saturday we looked over Columbia, which now has a population of over one thousand inside the corporate limits, and we could name three persons who were heads of families in this place forty years ago. Mr. John Eubank, Mr. Joe Coffey and Judge H. C. Baker.

Picnic.

The Methodist church and Sunday School of Columbia will have a picnic next Thursday, June 30th, at the Fair Grounds. We want to see you, everyone. There come and bring or send your basket and spend the day.

Transportation will be furnished from the church-yard for your baskets, children, and all who wish to ride and have no private conveyance. The first load will be expected at the church by 9 o'clock and the last by 5 o'clock.

Those expected, especially are all who are connected in any way with the Methodist church or Sunday school, together with your family and visitors.

All others who are sympathetic patrons and attendants are cordially invited.

Come early, dress comfortably, bring a good lunch and prepare to spend the day.

Let's make this a great social event and all get better acquainted.

The committee has arranged for some amusing entertainments so that the day will not be a drag for anyone. Tabor church is hereby invited to join in with us.

Tax-Books are Ready.

I am now ready to receive State, County and Graded School tax. I will be at my office every day. Come in.

A. D. Patterson, Sheriff.

Judge H. C. Baker made a very interesting talk at the Presbyterian church last Sunday forenoon. He gave an outline of the work of the meeting of the General Assembly which convened at Atlantic City, N. J., a few weeks ago, to which he was seated as a delegate from the Transylvania Presbytery. He also took up Church government, showing that Presbyterians were democratic in church affairs. It was also his intention to give the teachings of the Presbyterian Church, but the noon hour arrived and he was forced to cut his speech short. While en route to Atlantic City Judge Baker stopped a few hours in Philadelphia, visited Old Liberty, where John Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, saw the great bell and many other interesting sights in this historic old building.

Strayed.

Three two-year-old steers from my premises, two reds and a light roan. Will weigh five or six hundred pounds. The finder will be rewarded.

J. R. Bennett, Columbia, Ky.

Eld. Lawrence Williams and wife, who have been visiting relatives and friends in Columbia and Montpelier for the past two or three weeks, returned to their home at Ensey, Ala., last Friday. It was a pleasure to have Lawrence with us again. It had been two years since he was here before. The friends here had never seen his wife. He married her in Arizona, and it was his first visit here. They are well pleased with his choice of a companion and partner for life. She was born and reared in Texas, and has lived in Arizona for about seven years. They are located at Ensey, Ala., which recently has been incorporated into Birmingham.

Mr. Will Cloyd and wife, Mr. Leslie Gowdy and wife, Mrs. S. E. Kerr and daughter, Miss Maggie, all of Campbellsville, were poisoned from drinking milk one day last week. The party had gathered at the home of Mr. Cloyd, and milk was the only article that all partook, hence the conclusion that the milk caused the sickness. Mr. Cloyd, became seriously ill and for a time it was thought he would die. The milk evidently had been in a tin vessel.

I have a fine Jersey bull, Fee $1.50 at the gate. I also have a number of Jersey heifers for sale. J. B. Barbee, 32-41.

PREACHING NEXT SUNDAY.

W. H. C. Sandberg, Greensburg. J. B. J. Banger, Shiloh. Z. T. Williams, Pleasant Hill. F. R. Crawford, Union. J. A. Johnson, Picketts Chapel. J. H. Root, Milltown. J. F. Turner, West Fork. W. J. Levi, Greasy Creek. B. M. Corrie, Columbia. T. E. Emis, Beech Grove. W. S. Dudgeon, Hampden.

A letter has notified Mr. Ed Reynolds, of this place, that his brother, Jo Reynolds, who lived in Pensacola, Fla., died a few days ago. He was a native of Adair County, was about 70 years old, and was a victim of lung trouble. He left this county many years ago.

Mrs. Mary Biggs has just had her dwelling, on Campbellsville pike, repainted which adds greatly to the beauty of the home.

The Fourth District Convention.

The Fourth District Missionary Convention convened at Dunwell on Tuesday night June 17th and continued over Sunday.

There was a good attendance and good interest from the beginning. Most all of the speakers that were placed on the program were present and contributed their part well to the success of the meeting. W. T. Donaldson, of Lexington, made a fine address on Saturday on the subject of "Christian Education." The two Montgomery's made splendid addresses on "The Progress of Christian Union." A. H. Baugh made a strong address on "What Do We More Than Others." R. M. Hopkins our wide awake Bible School Evangelist conducted the Bible School session, and he and those who made talks on different phases of the Bible School work, made fine addresses. By the way this is the last District Convention that we will have before Hopkins with us. He has accepted the position of National Secretary of the Home Mission Board, and will leave the state the first of October, and take up his abode in Cincinnati as his headquarters for awhile. We regret very much indeed to have to give him up in our state work, but we are glad to see him prosper. He deserves it all and more too, for he has brought Kentucky to the front in Bible School work, and will leave the state in fine shape for his successor, who perhaps will be brother Frazee. He has already proven himself equal to the task, in the work he is doing in assisting brother Hopkins.

There were 237 present at the Bible School Sunday morning and it was the biggest Bible school that Dunwell ever had. Bro. Hudspeth preached the Sunday morning sermon to a large audience, and it was very much enjoyed by everybody. W. T. Donaldson preached a fine sermon in the afternoon. The convention then adjourned to meet again at Russell Springs Friday before the third Sunday in June 1911. This adjournment is made on condition, that if it suits the people of that place for us to have it there. This was our first convention in the new Fourth District, and it was one of the best ever had. The reports showed that there were 40 churches in the district, and that there were made of 20 which showed a membership of 2,400 in the Fourth District. There were 225 additions in the churches reporting during the year. Russell Springs for mission all told $608.00. For local preaching, $220.00. Sixteen of the churches have monthly preaching, and 15 of them have Bible Schools.

R. M. Gabbert who recently graduated at Lindsey-Wilson was employed as the evangelist for the Fourth District the remainder of the year. Two thousand dollars was raised at the convention in fifteen minutes for the support of the work. Bro. Gabbert will begin his work the first of July. May the Lord prosper the work in his hands in his prayer. The following churches were elected for ensuing year: Z. T. Williams, Pres., A. H. Baugh, Vice Pres., Henry Thomas, Sec't. A Committee was appointed in connection, the above named officers to constitute an Executive Committee for the district. It will be the duty of this committee to direct the evangelic work in the district; collect the funds and pay the evangelist.

Drowned.

Archie, a sixteen year old son of Mr. A. C. Wheeler, who lives at Knifley, this county, was drowned last Sunday in Casey Creek. He was in bathing, and not being a good swimmer, got into deep water with the result as above stated. Many people visited the Wheeler home to express their sympathy after the accident was made known.

Mr. Ernest Flowers has left at this office samples of his cat crop. The varieties are the "Bert" and Northern White. The Bert crop was sown in March and is now ready to cut. He thinks he will harvest forty bushels to the acre. The White oats will not be ready for the cradle for two or three weeks.

Z. T. Williams has changed his appointment at Pleasant Hill from the first Sunday in each month to the third, and at Roley from the third to the first in each month, beginning with July.

All who attended were well pleased with the open air services conducted by Rev. J. R. Crawford, in the yard of Mr. Elizabeth Pitt, Sunday afternoon, beginning at 6:30. Sunday afternoon week the services will be conducted in the lawn of Judge H. C. Baker. Every body invited.

The Columbia Fair offers an attractive premium list. Remember the date, August 23, four days.

Surprise Dinner.

On Thursday June 23rd Mrs. Harriet Vaughn, who makes her home with her son, O. C. Vaughn, was very much surprised when the following friends and relatives began dropping in carrying heavily laden boxes and baskets, mysterious packages and bouquets:

Mrs. and Mrs. Ben Conover; Mr. and Mrs. Ad Bradshaw; Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks; Mr. and Mrs. June Williams; Mesdames Tennis Dohoney, Jennie Johnson, Pattie Allen, Margaret Smith, Ann Conover, Rose Price, Sallie Cheatham, Sarah Garner, Minnie Judd, Sophia Hurt, Misses Nona Conover, Hattie and Lonnie Bradshaw, Mary and Katie Bennett, Mary May, and Mabel Willis, Katha and Ida Brooks, Bess, Ira and Artella Coffey; Nannie Smith, Mattie Williams, Alta Hair, Laura Powell, Bonnie Judd, Florence Lawless, Lettie Garner, Virge Conover, Rev. B. M. Currie, Messrs Tom, Ocas, Charlie and Arthur Bradshaw; Mack and Otha Willis, Mike and Rollin Brooks, Morrison Johnson, Lee and Herbert Hurt; Wallace Coffey.

It was several minutes before she could realize that they had come to make merry with her on her 74 birthday. After dinner was served on the lawn, the afternoon was spent in music, games and conversation. As the sun began to drop behind the tree tops, Bro. Currie called the visitors together to engage in a short devotional service, after which good byes were said. Each left feeling that one more golden thread had been woven in the fabric of life.

Mr. J. C. Sims, the well-known tombstone man, has removed his machinery from Campbellsville to Lebanon where his main office is located. He will also have a branch shop at Campbellsville. Mr. Sims has delivered a great deal of work to people of Adair County, giving perfect satisfaction. He continues to solicit the work from this section of the State.

Miss Bersot.

Miss Adeline Poindester Bersot, talented young lady of Louisville, is the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Christian Church at Russell Springs at the Court House last night.

Her address was given, humorous and pathetic, the principal selection being "The Christian's Life." It required about forty-five minutes to render this selection, but it was very accurately presented. At times the audience showed its appreciation by laughter, but the pathetic thoughts it contained brought to tender emotions. The entertainment was a success, and to Miss Bersot the thanks of the society and the many who were present, are due.

All accounts due July 1st. Please come in and pay us, we need the money.

Coe Negroes again on Rampage.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Inquirer, writes as follows concerning a trouble in the negro community:

The Coe negroes, who have gained such a notorious reputation in a feud which has existed for more than 20 years, and in which more than a score have been murdered, are on the war path again, and bloodshed is almost sure to follow. The negroes have been a terror to the citizens and officers of Cumberland county for 23 years.

Recently officers learned that Cal Coe and other negroes were living with white women unlawfully, and determining to break it up, they went to Coe Ridge and arrested Cal Coe, and other negroes, and two white women and placed them in jail. This step on the part of the officers raised the ire of the negroes, and after being released from jail, Coe swore vengeance against every one who in any way had anything to do with his arrest.

The Burkville Banner edited by S. A. Carry, printed a short article of the arrest using no names and for this he was warned that he will be shot down on sight.

Got Five Years.

Water Pierce, charged with killing Taylor Sullivan, at Denmark, last year was tried at Jamestown, the case coming to an end last Thursday afternoon, the jury fixing his punishment at five years in the penitentiary. Messrs. Holm and James Garrett, defended Pierce and the State was represented by the Commonwealth's Attorney, Mr. A. A. Huddleston, Mr. N. H. W. Aaron, of Monticello, and the local bar. The father of the convicted man will likely be tried this week as accessory to the crime.

Born, June 29th, to the wife of Allen Trigg, Glasgow, Ky., a daughter, Charlotte Walker.

Birthday Dinner.

Last Tuesday was the fortieth birthday of Dr. C. M. Russell, of this place. While the doctor was answering a call in the country, Mrs. Russell was at home preparing an excellent six o'clock dinner to which she invited all the physicians of the town. When Dr. Russell returned home he found his brother physicians comfortable seated in the shade about the front door and was at a loss to understand its meaning. An explanation followed and in a very short time the guests were seated at a well-filled table enjoying a most delightful repast.

We are over stocked in clothing and are now selling at great reduced prices for fall trade. F. L. Wilson, Russell Springs, Ky.

Robert Ingram, Sec'y.

The first day of circuit court brought a large crowd to Jamestown, and business was fairly good throughout the day. In the forenoon Judge Tarter and Judge Bethrutham, of Somerset, addressed a crowded court-room in favor of the candidacy of Hon. C. C. Edwards, and in the afternoon Mr. Caleb Powers spoke in his own interest. He was greeted with an immense applause, and Judge Tarter and Judge Bethrutham made strong pleas in advocacy of Mr. Edwards. The writer did not hear Mr. Powers, but was informed that he especially pleased his audience. At this writing it can not be doubted that Russell County Republicans, a large majority of them, are in favor of Mr. Powers. However, there are men who are termed leaders in the party who are strong for Edwards. It is a long haul until the primary and just what changes will be made, if any remains to be seen.

Mr. A. G. Willis exhibited at this office, last Saturday, a dryland terrapin that is evidently very old. On his back were several names cut and the date, June 1, Y. Willis, 1855, another name and date, but it could not be read. Clarence Willis, a grandson of A. G. Willis, found the terrapin on his grandfather's farm.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wolford, widow of the late Col. Frank Wolford, met with a stroke of paralysis last Sunday forenoon. She had just arrived from the country and was at the home of her son, Clay, when the affliction came. She could not speak during the day, but Monday morning her condition had somewhat improved.

A representative of this paper was in Russell county last week, and the first and second day of court he met a number of farmers. He made inquiry about the wheat crop and learned that it was much better than was first expected. Mr. Sam Aaron, who is a very prosperous farmer, stated that he had just harvested a large crop and that it was first-class. He also reported that corn throughout the county looking thrifty.

Jamestown now has a municipal board, a fact that greatly surprised Dr. C. M. Russell, who was in town the first day of court to sell his medicines. When he drew up his buggy and commenced telling the people of the wonderful cures he had made, the City Marshal approached him and collected the license fee. We do not know what the fee is in Jamestown, but it ought to be not less than twenty dollars.

Go to work and get your horses, cattle and hogs in good condition for the Columbia Fair. It begins August 23-four days.

A Runaway.

Last Sunday afternoon as Mr. Jake Bault and wife were returning to their home in the Cane Valley section, they having been in the eastern portion of the county, accident befell them near the home of Mr. W. G. McKinley, the J. A. Naylor farm. Mr. and Mrs. Bault were in a buggy and in descending a hill the backing strap broke which scared the horse and he started in breakneck speed, running several hundred yards. The buggy was upset and torn to pieces and one of Mrs. Bault's arms was badly hurt, but not broken. When this accident first occurred it was reported that the horse got scared at Dr. R. A. Jones' automobile. It developed that it did not see the machine.

At The Parsonage.

Last Sunday afternoon about 8 o'clock, Mr. Kelley Bell and Miss Lillie Hurt drove to the parsonage, and while seated in their buggy were married by Rev. B. M. Currie. The groom is a son of Mr. John Bell and the bride is a daughter of Mr. Lapse Hurt. For the present the couple will reside at the home of Mr. Kelley Bell in this city. Many few people knew that the contracting parties were contemplating marriage.

None Worry About Pumps.

A few weeks ago a picture show visited Edmonston. In leaving a man, who it is said is in some way connected with the show, persuaded a sixteen year old daughter of Mr. Henry Wilson, who lives near Edmonston, to go with him. They left together and last Saturday Mr. Wilson came to Columbia and consulted an attorney, who told him that he would have the right to take his daughter wherever found. Sunday, Mr. Wilson and Deputy Sheriff Sam Mitchell went to Edmonston where the show had exhibited Saturday night for the purpose of securing the girl. They were disappointed, the man and girl had taken their departure.

W. B. Taylor of Lagrange, Ky., will bring a revival meeting at Pleasant Hill near Montpelier on Sunday night after the third Sunday in July. Mr. Taylor was born and reared to young manhood near Pleasant Hill, and has quite a number of relatives and friends here who will be glad to give him a hearty welcome in the old neighborhood. It has been some six years since he visited the community before. His son Benjamin will accompany him and remain during the meeting. Mr. Taylor is a very fine preacher, and it will be an enjoyable season to have him back again.

Mr. W. T. Otley, the proprietor of the Columbia Bottling Works Co., met with a very serious accident last Monday afternoon. He was running the bottling machine when a bottle exploded, one piece of the glass striking his left arm, cutting a very severe gash, severing the leaders of the two last fingers on the hand. Dr. Hindman closed up the wound, taking several stitches.

Judge H. C. Baker, who went off the bench in the 25th Judicial district the first of January, will resume his avocation as a practicing attorney. He has rented apartments in the Russell building and will have his office fitted in a very short time.

Miss Alice Murrell will please accept our thanks for a lot of Early Harvest apples. They were very much enjoyed.

The cost of growing a peach orchard up to the full bearing age varies in this country from $100 to $150 an acre. A man with small means may undertake to grow a peach orchard in his own way. If he can do most of the work the actual cash outlay is much reduced. He should of course provide irrigation, buildings, fences, horses and suitable implements. Vegetables and small fruits may be grown between the rows of trees the first three years, and in an established fruit district there is always a great amount of outside work to be had at good wages. Peach trees begin to bear when three years old and they produce large crops at the age of six years. We know one instance in which four and one-half acres of Elberta peaches brought a gross return of $280 an acre the third season after planting, but this was a rather unusual occurrence. When in full bearing, gross returns of from $1,000 to $1,500 an acre have been common. An average net income from the orchards of the best fruit districts will run from $300 to $500 an acre and yet at the same time peach culture is gradually sloughing off to make room for the winter apple.—Ex.

Weeds should be kept down till they will not be capable of further injury. The main object is to see that they do not produce seed, for nature in her desire to prevent the extinction of any species, endows them with the power of producing seed when very young and small. The morning glory, cockle burr and many other weeds will make seed pods when not over six inches high.

A Timely Warning About Flies.

Released for publication on the morning of June 21, 1910.

In every town and locality in the State many people have failed to heed the numerous warnings that have been issued against flies. Attention has been called to the fact that they are one of the most dangerous menaces to life and health with which mankind has to contend, being responsible for a large portion of all cases of typhoid fever and diarrhoeal diseases of infants and many cases of tuberculosis and other contagious diseases.

They have caused thousands of deaths in Kentucky and will continue their work of destruction until housekeepers awaken to the fact and inaugurate a warfare that will result in their extermination.

This can be accomplished definitely and effectively. It requires only the removal of filth. Flies breed in filth and in filth alone. Without filth there can be no flies. More than 90 per cent. of them breed in stable manure and the balance in garbage, outhouses and other forms of refuse.

The fly season is at hand, and prompt action at this time may prevent many deaths during the summer and fall and a grave responsibility rests upon all health officers and other citizens.

An immediate and thorough cleaning of premises should be effected and further accumulations of filth avoided. Stable manure should be kept in vaults or boxes screened or covered or frequently sprinkled with lime or kerosene and should be removed at least once a week.

Garbage receptacles should be carefully covered and the contents sprinkled with unslacked lime or oil.

Privy vaults should be made fly-proof and their contents frequently sprinkled with lime.

In addition to the measures for the prevention of the breeding of flies every effort should be made to prevent them from entering the house or having access to milk or other foods.

All doors and windows especially those of the kitchen and dining-room should be screened. Food exposed for sale should be screened and ordinances to this effect be enacted and enforced.

Flies should be especially kept away from the sick and if one is discovered in the sick room it should be killed. Excreta and urine from the sick should be covered with fresh lime for an hour and then buried.

People who have cleaned their own premises should demand that their neighbors should do likewise and notify the Board of Health of any failures or refusals. It is important to remember that no house is safe unless every other one for a mile around is clean. This applies especially to tenant's houses and negro quarters.

The saving of life and suffering will amply repay for all the trouble and expense.

Either man must kill the fly or the fly will kill the man.

Bill Bailey at Philadelphia.

Although Bill Bailey's experiences at New Orleans were far from Pleasant, he had rambling in his head and thus could not be contented at home. He was restless, uneasy, until one day he happened to read of "The City of Brotherly Love" "Where could this be," he thought. He searched his Geography, but could not find it. He was puzzled. This divinely endowed city could not be found. He studied, he thought, mused. "Could it be possible," he thought, "that the old prophecy is being fulfilled, and that this is the place where the lamb and the bear shall lie down together, and the lion shall eat straw like an ox?"

But at last one day in looking over a list of sobriquets he found that "The City of Brotherly Love" was only a popular name for the city of Philadelphia. He read of how William Penn had purchased the whole State of Pennsylvania for sixteen thousand pounds; of how a bank of Quakers had settled the State; of Penn's treaty with the Indians in which they declared "We will live in peace with Penn and his followers so long as the sun and moon shall shine;" of how the city of Philadelphia was laid off with broad streets and with beautiful flower gardens around each and every house, and of the marvelous growth of the city since then. He picked up a stereoscope and the first view to inspect was a scene in "The Garden of Philadelphia." He gazed at this for a moment. He laid it aside. The resolution was complete. He would go to Philadelphia.

He was on his way. But his previous traveling had taught him a lesson. He would be more cautious and thus guard against mistakes. And not knowing anyone here he decided to employ a messenger to show him the City. He made inquiry and was pleased to learn that alligators and such terrors had never visited this city. He made a tour of the city, and stopped at a hotel of the messengers selection. Things soon seemed to go Bill's way. The ball season was on. Bill attended regularly. And here he met Miss Sallie Belfoe, a lady to his liking, who lived in a mansion on Chatham Street, not far from Bill's hotel, and so he soon had an introduction to the city's society.

It was not many nights until there was to be a grand social near by. Bill was going and desired to accompany Miss Belfoe thither. So here is the card he sent:

"Miss Sallie,
 Dear mum:—
 Go and get you ready;
 Wear a bran new gown;
 For there is to be a party
 In this good old town.
 The gals are all invited
 And the boys are going too,
 If you've got no other company
 I want to go with you.
 Signed as your lover,
 Bill Bailey."

Although this card was a little peculiar and somewhat different from anything of the kind she had ever before received, Miss Sallie accepted, and awaited with pleasure the outcome.

So by and by the time rolled round. Bill sat out for the home of Miss Sallie, which was reached in a few moments, but what was his surprise upon reaching the mansion and not seeing anyone about the premises to find out that he did not know how to enter the house. So he hollowed, "Hello!" as he was accustomed to do in the country. But no one answered. He hollowed again, and this time a policeman came round and demanded the cause of the outcry. Bill saw that he had made a mistake and was very much humbled. He told the officer his mission, and thereupon was given instructions for entering the house. He entered now, but lo! Miss Sallie had changed; had decided not to go to the party. Bill was chagrined. He departed, and upon meeting his friends this experience he related:

"I went to the house where she lived. As no one was to be seen I hollowed, and as no one answered I hollowed again. Then there came a great big ruffian with brass buttons on his coat and packing a club and asked what I was bawling about. I told him that I was not bawling that I had come to go with my gal to the party and only wanted to know if she was ready to start. He told me to hush howling and to go up and ring the door-bell and I would be admitted. I told him that I did not want to be admitted, but only wanted to know if Sal was ready to go to the party. He said that that was alright, and said to ring the door bell and then I could make inquiry, and then he went on. Well, I went up to the door, and the darned thing didn't have any bell on it. I just stood there and looked around and at last I saw a little snout sticking out. I don't know what it was, but I made up my mind that I would step up and pull it and see what it would do. Well, I reached out and took hold of it and Gee! what a noise it made. I jumped back just as a little nigger opened the door and asked what I wanted. Well, he said give me your card. I told him that I didn't have any cards; that it was against the law to play cards out where I lived, and that I only wanted to know if Sal was ready to go to the party. He then said, "O this is Mr. Bailey is it?" No sir it is not, I said. It is Bill Bailey and I have come to go with Sal to the party and I want to know if she is ready to start. Well, come in then, he said. So I went into a great big room and there sat Sal. So I said good morning or evening which ever it is. She got up and stooped way over and said; "Have a seat honey." I said look here sis, this is not Honey, but it is Bill Bailey and I've come to go with you to the party, and if you do not hurry up it will be over before we get there. She looked sour and said that she was not going herself; that she would have company at home, but that she would find me an escort. She reached over and touched something shiny on the wall and in a minute a great big nigger came in and she told him to show me the door. I told him that I could find it myself, but he took me by the arm and shoved me out. I told them both good-bye, and gentlemen if the girls of Philadelphia want to court niggers they may do so for me. This may be a City of Brotherly Love, but there is no sisterly love here for me I am going home."

Well he went home. But with a sorrowful heart he sighed, world is such a conglomeration of disappointments.

The Hunter's Return.

Guns are booming, whistles are blowing, waves are roaring, ships are decorated, streets are jammed, flags waving and men marching in New York to-day. At least such is the program of the reception to be given Theodore Roosevelt on his return from a year's absence, most of which time he spent in African jungles.

The ex-President returns a more conspicuous man of the world than he was when he started on his long journey, for he has been measured by the standards of royalty and has held his own. He seems to be the same whether giving advice to the emigrants in steerage or banqueting with kings and emperors.

And what is he? One among hundreds of thousands these free and independent States give birth and life to every year. A product of America honored when abroad, adored on his return. In conferring honors on him now we are but bestowing honors on an American citizen. Let the guns boom! Let the people shout!—Farmers Home Journal.

Accuracy in a Printing Office.

None but the initiated know the accuracy required in a printing office. The average reader who detects a misspelled word or a letter upside down feels that his mission on earth is not accomplished until he has called the attention of the overworked editor to the glaring defect. He does not notice the thousands and tens of thousands of letters that are in place or the multitude of words correctly spelled, but his eagle eye is glued on the one that is out of place. So it is with our deeds. Man does a thousand good deeds, and no attention is paid to them, but if he makes one mistake it is flashed all over the world. A life-time may be spent in building up a reputation that may be wrecked in a moment. The world is a harsh critic, exacting to a fault.—Ex.

Cruelty in Shipping Poultry.

A bill has been introduced in Congress giving the Interstate Commerce Commission the right to devise rules governing poultry shipments. The bill stipulates that live poultry shall not be overcrowded in shipment, that the coops or cages shall be of such size as to permit the birds to stand upright; that provision must be made for adequate ventilation in shipping coops and in the cars; and that the poultry shall have food and water at least once every twenty-four hours. A penalty of from $100 to $300 is affixed for violating these regulations, or such other regulations as the Commission may adopt. This is a good bill and ought to become a law at once.

Color in Horses.

Bay color in horses in dominant over chestnut, according to statistics collected by Hurst. He found that, out of 1,304 thoroughbred foals from chestnut sires and dams, 1,095 were chestnut in color. Evidently chestnut begets chestnuts with great uniformity. But he found that stallions with no chestnut color traceable in their immediate ancestry got very few chestnut colts from chestnut mare, and many of these bay stallions got only bay colts from chestnut mares. This indicates that the bay color is dominant over the chestnut or suppresses it. It was further found that bay stallions having both bay and chestnut in their immediate parentage got both bay and chestnut foals in about equal numbers from chestnut mares. The 702 foals from 12 such stallions were found to include 335 bays 347 chestnuts, or practically 50 per cent. of each. This is in accordance with Mendel's law of the transmission of dominant and recessive characters, and indicates that probably the bay and chestnut colors in horses are on the average transmitted in about these proportions with respect to each other.—Breeders' Gazette.

Feed the Pig Early.

The general tendency is to let the pigs get along on whatever may be at hand until "fattening time," and then invest either purchased or home-grown grain which has a cash value in the finishing process. This practice should be very nearly reversed. The young pig has a very limited capacity for utilizing bulky or coarse vegetable wastes. Careful experiments have been made at a number of our stations to determine the relative efficiency of various available feeds as growth producers for the pig. There is every basis for the assertion that the young pig should have the benefit of purchased concentrated food if milk is not available. He will pay more for what he eats in the first four months than in the second four, or during any succeeding period of equal length.

Arrested for Printing Cartoon.

Because he printed in his paper, the Memphis Herald, a cartoon on the political disturbances in congress, which was declared by authorities to be obscene and indecent, and attempted to circulate it through the mails, A. L. Rowe, its editor, has been arrested. Mr. Rowe is indignant. He says he has been misjudged and misinterpreted. The cartoon was on the front page and dwelt on the situation between the Insurgents and the Republicans in congress. The former were represented as a bull, an indicative of Congressman Ernest Bullock, of Jackson, Miss., while the regulars were pictured as the usual elephant. All the papers which came to the post-office were suppressed and the editor's arrest followed.

There would not have been such a surplus of potatoes as to send the price down to almost nothing, had it not been for the large importation of foreign potatoes last winter. These importations would not have come in except for the good prices that prevailed when the foreign consignments were made. Nobody was prepared for the disastrous drop which took place in the spring, and potato growers are regarding the situation with apprehension and discouragement. It is likely this feeling will have its result in a decreased acreage, especially in those sections where potatoes went begging in March at ten cents a bushel. Those who had the courage to go right on are in a fair way to secure decent prices for their new crop, when it comes on.

Farm Notes.

Give the chicks grit.

Little pigs like green feed.

The young horse has many things to learn.

Skim milk is good for the chickens this time of year.

The root maggot of cabbage comes from the egg of a fly.

The dwarf nasturtium makes an excellent border plant of medium size.

A very desirable and useful tool which is not found on all farms is a level.

The finer the teeth of the cultivator the finer and more satisfactory the work.

In the training of colts a blow should never be struck, or a loud or violent word used.

Stale drinking vessels breed disease. A few cents' worth of disinfectants will soon save dollars' worth of poultry.

It pays to keep livestock on the farm for the manure they make and the unmarketable feeds they can turn into money.

A thorough investigation of the methods of feeding young turkeys shows to what extent general rules are followed.

Three harrowings of young corn may be given, one just before the corn is up, and one when the young plants are several inches high.

There is a very laudable movement now in progress among the shippers of fresh fruits looking to the uniformity of packing and the standardization of fruit.

The work team should have a little exercise every day and not stand day after day in the stable and then be taken out and made to do a heavy day's work.

The best raiser who aims at the greatest possible profit from his business must use cattle especially adapted to the purpose and perfected to a high degree.

Corn should be cut for the silo when it is fairly well matured; that is, when the kernels are in what is known as the "dough stage," all or nearly all of the kernels being dented.

Clover and rape seeded for hog or calf pasture make cheap feed. A small patch of this will save the buying of a good deal of bran and other concentrates. A dollar saved is two dollars earned.

The best way to begin the poultry business is in a small way. As you learn from experience, the best teacher, you can increase your flock and find out the best markets for your products.

Spring pigs can get along very well without shelter, except from rain, until fall, then if you are so shiftless as to fail to provide shelter they are better able to stand the cold and rain. But they will not thrive.

Drones usually take their flight during the middle part of the day, mostly from ten to three o'clock during a warm, pleasant day, when they can be seen flying in large numbers in front of the hives and over the apiary.

Water in the soil is continually on the move, sometimes fast and at other times slower. When it stops raining and the surface of the soil becomes dry, then the moisture in the earth begins to move upward, from one soil particle to another, by capillarity.

There are many other and better uses for flowers than to pile on coffins at funerals. They are meant for living folks. Then let us have some in our front yard, yes, and the back yard too, and under the eaves at the side of the house and over by the garden fence. It is a thousand times better to grow flowers for your family to enjoy while they are alive than to buy them at 75 cents a dozen to pile on their graves after they are dead.

Fine celery can be grown as easily as any garden vegetable, if one has good plants, by heavy mulching between the rows when the plants are six to twelve inches high, and by pouring water or house wastes over the mulch during the summer. This does not take much time for a small family bed. Celery can be well blanched by setting boards along the rows.

It is easily possible almost everywhere to make a hen produce three dollars' worth of eggs a year on $1.50 worth of feed.

Soy beans require conditions and cultivation similar to those required by corn. Good preparation of the soil is necessary.

For dry and cloddy corn fields, either before or after the corn is planted, a heavy roller is better than either the harrow or drag.

Barnyard manure adds quite a little plant food to the soil besides containing considerable organic matter which will go toward the formation of humus.

To secure the greatest benefit from a green manuring crop care must be taken in turning it under to have the soil harrowed and packed as fast as it is plowed.

A proper handling of the milk is most essential. Too often it is drawn from the cow in stables in which the air is filled with dust and put in unclean vessels.

Live stock needs water at all seasons, but water during warm weather is more essential. Prepare now for a good water supply for the animals during the summer months.

The color of milk does not indicate the richness of it. Oftentimes milk which is rich is blue in color and oftentimes milk which is yellow and rich looking is of a rather poor quality.

Cream, on the average, will weigh about eight pounds to the gallon, but it varies, according to the per cent. of butter fat which it contains. It is well known that butter-fat is lighter than milk.

Success in poultry culture is simply the result of looking after all the little details connected with the business. Anyone can be successful if he will use a little diligence and common sense.

Most of the brood mares in the central west are dual purpose in character. They not only raise colts but most of them put in eight or ten hours of strenuous labor every day after the colt is ten days or two weeks old.

If young hogs are kept in close confinement and fed heavily on corn alone, they will most likely develop leg weakness, as they require nitrogenous foods in which skim milk should take a large part in order to grow good, solid bones.

CHAS. S. HARRIS EDITOR.

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interest of the City of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Entered at the Columbia Post-office as second class mail matter.

WED. JUNE 29, 1910.

Congress adjourned last Saturday. It was a long tedious session.

Senator Gore's charge, that an attempt had been made to bribe him in the matter of the Indian contracts, before the Senate, will be investigated.

Former Gov. Hoke Smith, of Georgia who was defeated for re-election two years ago by Joseph M. Brown, has announced his candidacy for the governorship. Gov. Brown is a candidate for re-election.

Gov. Haskell, of Oklahoma, has issued a proclamation calling a special election for August 2 to vote on the "grandfather clause" amendment to the Constitution, which his opponents say will disfranchise the negro.

Mr. Taft has got his pet measure through both branches of Congress and when he signs the bill, Postal Saving Banks will be established. It looks very much like the government is going to try and do the banking business in large centers of this country.

The Governors of the various States of the union will meet in conference at Frankfort, Ky., November 29th. President Taft and former President Roosevelt will also be present. The principal object of their visit, perhaps will be to hear Governor Wilson make a speech.

The Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in session at Nashville, instructed the treasurer of the board to honor any drafts that might be drawn on the board by the bishops for the purpose of defraying the expenses incident to the defense of the rights of the church in the Vanderbilt University controversy.

Forty-five million eggs have been shipped into Newark, N. J., since April 1 and placed in cold storage by the warehousemen, to remain there until the high prices of last winter are duplicated. The eggs come mostly from Indiana, Michigan and Ohio. They were purchased at an average price of 23¢ to 24 cents a dozen. The trusts believe in giving them to the consumer strong.

Mr. Powers will be speaking in Adair county next week and Mr. Edwards will be filling appointments in Wayne. We understand that the latter gentleman will visit this county at an early date. The race for the nomination is just now getting started, and in a few weeks many Republican speakers will be in the field battling for their respective candidate.

Hon. Campbell Cantrill won over Hon. Claud M. Thomas in the primary held last Saturday in the Seventh district for the Democratic nomination for Congress. Cantrill carried every county in the district but two—Bourbon and Woodford. His majority is about 2,700. The affidavit published in Thomas' interest and to Cantrill's detriment, was gotten out on the eve of the primary, not giving Cantrill time to defend himself, and evidently worked to Mr. Thomas' disadvantage.

Pellham.

The farmers are putting in good time plowing their corn getting it in good shape, some is looking very well considering so much rain.

Cy Barger Receives Big Ovation.

A merited compliment paid a Columbia baseball pitcher by the Brooklyn, N. Y., Eagle.

The most popular man in Brooklyn today is one Cy Barger, the lanky twister of the Brooklyn team. If ever there was a thrilling game in which a pitcher was the whole show from soup to nuts it was that wonderful fourteen-inning battle at Washington Park between the Superbas and Cubs. Cy was a marvel in every department of the game. He pitched great ball, fielded like a fend and, as for hitting, why Cy made the famous Watus Milligan's best feats look like bus league stuff.

Never before in Brooklyn has a ball-player been handed the ovation that itally swamped Barger after he tore off that two-bagger in the fourteenth inning, which sent Erwin scurrying across the plate with the winning run. In a second the field was flooded with fans, men and women vying with one another in heaping adulation on the great pitcher. The crowd caught Cy before he could get anywhere near the clubhouse and, although he was against it, he was hoisted up on the shoulders of the crowd and carried down the field. It was the first time a Brooklyn crowd became so enthusiastic over a Brooklyn player as to carry him off the field.

Hundreds of fans waited outside the grounds for close on to an hour for Barger to appear. When he showed himself there was another uproar. Up street the crowd followed him, cheering him wildly every step of the way. The reception rattled Cy. He blushed like a schoolgirl and once started to run to get away from his admirers. But the crowd wouldn't stand for that. They caught him, made him walk and cheered until they were hoarse. A crowd on the "U" station at Third St., added to the din by joining in the cheering.

The ovation was wonderful, but Barger deserves every bit of it. It was the greatest game of ball ever played at Washington Park and it was Barger who was the star from start to finish. He pitched masterly ball and showed he is as game as any pitcher that ever lived. While his pitching was a treat to watch, his batting was equally good. Four times he hit safely and two of his wallows were good for doubles. It was his first double that scored a run that temporarily put Brooklyn in the lead. His second two-bagger sent in the winning run.

"Win your own game," is a cry that has been popular in baseball as long as the game has been played. The fans delight more in seeing a pitcher deliver the timely bingle than in any other thing. A pitcher winning such a sensational contest was with a rousing wallow is a sight seldom seen.

It was an ideal contest. There was just enough hitting to keep the crowd continually on edge. The fielding, too, was brilliant. Burch, Wheat and Schulte made great catches. Burch's catch of Archer's drive in the second inning was the timely bingle than in any other thing. A pitcher winning such a sensational contest was with a rousing wallow is a sight seldom seen.

Barger did his most effective pitching against Frank Schulte, the Cubs' greatest p nch hitter. Six times Schulte came to bat and four times Barger sent him down on strikes. (In three of the four occasions when Barger fanned him, there were men on the bases. Cy also got out of a tight hole in the eighth inning by some clever pitching. With one out, Hofman tripled, and with Tinker coming up, he looked dollars to cents that the Cubs would score, for Cy Tinker had to do was to send a long fly to the outfield. But the trying situation did not phase Barger a bit. Manager Dahen has all along claimed that Cy was as game a pitcher as he ever saw. Cy tightened up, and when he made Tinker pop up to Daubert and fanned Archer there was another whirlwind of applause.

It certainly was a great victory for Barger to achieve because he had pitted against him not only the greatest baseball machine in the world, in Chance's Cubs, but also had to go up against a pitcher whom the Cubs believed was invincible. "King" Cole is one of Chance's youngsters, but he has pitched wonderful ball all season, having won all six games he participated in. He pitched a great game, but Barger had a shade on him in his games, and, besides, Cy, by his great batting, made sure his rivals winning streak would not be continued at his expense.

The Superbas had a fine chance to end the game in the tenth inning, as Erwin, who batted for Bergen, got around to third with only one out on his single. Barger's safe punt and Burch's force of Barger at second. A long fly by Daubert would have won the game, but Jake hit sharply to the pitcher and Erwin was forced to bag third. While Jake was being thrown out, Manager Chance then pulled a funny one. He ordered Cole to walk Wheat, preferring to take a chance on Hummel. The daring of the thing made the fans gasp, but Chance was lucky enough to have the scheme work out right for him, although Hummel came within an ace of breaking up the game. Schulte rolled him out of a hit by a circus catch.

The victory combined with the defeat of St. Louis by Boston, puts the Superbas on even terms with St. Louis for fifth place. Barger's pitching has been the big aid in the Superbas' rapid climb from the cellar to the top of the second division. Cy has now won five straight.

If you have a home and are out of debt, don't fret and worry yourself and good wife into the grave for the sake of a few dollars. You can buy one life to live, and it is brief at best. Take a little pleasure and comfort as you go day by day, and try to do a little good to others. A morbid, insatiable desire to possess the earth, to grab everything in sight, is at the foundation of more misery than almost any one thing. Wealth alone will never keep men green; a good life and kind actions will.

Notes on the Way.

Leaving home the morning of the 17th, I passed through Taylor, Marion, Nelson, Bullitt and Jefferson, thence through Hardin, Hart, Warren, Logan, Todd, Christian, Hopkins, Webster and Henderson. Too much rain has kept the farmers back in corn planting and cultivating in the upper counties, and corn is small. Wheat will not yield more than half a crop, and will not be harvested before the last of the month. Passing from the Salt river country there has been less rain, corn and tobacco have been well tilled and are growing rapidly. Some corn waist high and tobacco six to eight leaves. All the earlier sown wheat has been harvested and a full crop—late sown is not so good.

Oats and grass are about the average and corn acreage about the average. Stock of all kinds scarce and high. People down here even trade in chickens. No fruit. It is getting quite dry here.

Very Respect,
Henderson, Ky., June 21, 1910.

Gresham Loses, Coburg.

At Coburg last Saturday in a hotly contested game between the Gresham and Coburg local base ball teams, Gresham went down in defeat for the third time by a score of 9 to 0, in a series of games played by them, two at Coburg and one at Graham. Gresham had recently defeated Greensburg and her boys were on hands early feeling confident, but when they went up for the third against the Coburg boys, was witnessed by a large crowd. Gresham took the lead and kept it throughout the game, and at the close the score stood 15 to 12 in favor of Gresham, but had the fair thing have been done the victory for Gresham would have been far greater.

But we won the victory as it was, even though the empire was against us, and victory was what we went for. Give us the disadvantages if you want to and we will still keep in the lead.

These Coburg boys are pretty clever fellows, but don't seem to stand the defeat very bravely. Nerve up to it boys

A Blacksmith Senator.

Among the picturesque features of American biography there are few more attractive than those that tell of men who have risen from obscurity and poverty to positions of power and influence in State and Nation. We hear it said occasionally that the day of such cases is past, but we have never believed this. There are many men who have come to the front in this generation who had quite as humble beginnings as Lincoln, the rail splitter; Grant, the tanner; Garfield, the canalboat hand; Johnson, the tailor; Elihu Burritt, the blacksmith, or anyone of the long roll who "hitched their wagon to a star." Apropos, we have the news from St. Joseph, Mo., that John F. Breckinridge, a sturdy blacksmith has rolled down his shirt sleeves over his brawny arms, put on his collar and necktie, and entered the race for the United States Senate. John was a cowboy in his younger days, then a horse-shoer and he is now a son of Vulcan. By the sparkle of his forge he seems to have dreamed and builded air castles which, unlike most edifices of the kind, seem very likely to come. He is a heroic blacksmith, too, for some ten years ago he saved five lives in a hotel fire, and later, he rescued two men from drowning. On the whole, John the Blacksmith would seem to have better stuff in him than some of the men who are merely representative moneybags in legislation nowadays. His future may be full of interest for others besides the people of Missouri.—Christian Herald.

The Springfield (Tennessee) Herald is putting up a game and vigorous fight against the Patterson machine for the honor and integrity of the state. The machine and whisky sheets are working their old scheme of abuse, bluster and villification, but they are not bluffing the Herald or the people who believe in justice and right. The Herald is putting a premium on manhood and integrity which will bear the right kind of fruit in the coming years of true Democracy and honorable statehood and will be gratefully remembered when enemies are forgotten. It is fruitless to cry "regularity" and "bolter" when all principle is sunk in partisanship. To deliver the Democratic party over to the devil and his minions is not to put an attractive robe upon that for which Jefferson toiled and sacrificed. Here's to you, Buddy!—Harrodsburg Herald.

It's the poorest who pay the highest taxes under the Payne-Aldrich law. The woman who buys woolen or worsted cloth for a dress pays $9.40 for a pattern that cost $4 abroad, or a tariff tax of 135 per cent., while her more fortunate sister pays a tariff tax of only 30 per cent., on the imported silk dress she buys. The cheapest blankets the laborer can buy for his humble bed carry a tax of 107 per cent., but the fine blankets on the bed of the captain of industry are assessed only 71 per cent. Hats and bonnets costing $5 or less per dozen are taxed 62 per cent., costing more than $20 per dozen get in for 35 per cent. Fine system, isn't it—for the rich?

One Grain.

It is stated that if one grain of corn could be added to each ear there would be enough revenue thus derived to pay for all the agricultural colleges now in operation, and that if no seed were planted without being tested, our crops would be increased to an amount sufficient to pay the national debt every year. Now is the opportunity for you who read the signs of the times. There is a fortune in store for each one of you who will take Uncle Sam's advice to educate your sons to scientific farming, who will carefully select and test your seeds, who will feed stock enough to enrich your soil, and leave to the next generation a heritage of experiences, and broad acres which will produce not merely 12 to 14 bushels of wheat, but from 32 to 35 bushels per acre.

Do you know that by scientific tillage, Nebraska's Experiment Station has averaged over 60 bushels of wheat to the acre for the past four years? That another field in Alberta by the same method averaged 70 bushels of wheat per acre? Another 46 bushels per acre, and made $14,000 clear profit in one year? The other crop yields are equally as good and without irrigation? That dry farming land has commanded a price of $1,000 an acre? That irrigated land has sold as high as $3,000 per acre?

The Dollar.

Just a dollar on a mission sent make a lot of people glad each time the coin is spent. You pay it to the butcher for the meat to give you strength he takes it to the grocer from whom it goes at length for some pretty bit of cloth or lace his better half to buy, or help to get her summer half to make her rival sigh. The dry goods man sent on the coin to pay the market bill, and though the coin is often spent it stays a dollar still, and every time 'tis spent at home some act of good is done: in booming local industries it's bound to make them run. But if you take the shining coin and break the local chain, the chances are that from afar 'twill not return again. If once it passes out of town the butcher and baker, the grocer and the dry goods man, the furniture man and carpenter, the wagon man and blacksmith, the shoe man and the printer, everyone will lose the chance to touch the coin ere the setting of the sun. Just keep the little coin at home just keep it moving well, and every time it changes hands somebody's goods 'twill sell. That single little dollar has thus a wondrous power to make somebody happy a dozen times an hour. It pays the bill and wards off ill and ne'er its power relaxes to soothe the doctor, buy the coal and pay for clothes and taxes.

Whistle Here.

"Whistle here," says the signal board to the engineer as he approaches some crossing, town or thoroughfare, and warn unwary people of approaching danger.

"Whistle here," says worn out physical nature, irritable nerves, sleepless nights and impaired digestion to the ambitious brain. Heed the signal or the keenest intellect and the truest heart is crippled for life.

"Whistle here," says conscience to the young man taking his first glass at the bar, uneasy and ashamed of himself and half resolves he will never be seen there again. Heed, oh heed while conscience speaks, death is in the draught.

"Whistle here," says fashionable ambition as you don your costly robes and exulteth thy neighbor when thy purse only contains what is rightfully another's. Sooner or later thy seal skin sacque will be changed for a mantle of shame.

"Whistle here," signals ruined hope and despondent days when you are contracting debts to bask in ease and to laden your table with delicious morsels to feed your friends; wisdom speaketh, "fools make feasts and wise men eat them, debts come due and you've nothing to meet them."

"Whistle here," says providence when the ruin and disgrace of some old speculator, whose greed of gain has made him an embezzler, brings home the warning to the young speculator, who knows that though not yet discovered, he has begun to tread the same path. Ah, friends, heed these friendly warnings; though oft repeated are not heard forever. Their voice is deadened by our very familiarity with them.—Shelbyville Record.

Feeding Corn in Field.

The following notes are taken from a summary appearing in Bulletin 104 of the Minnesota Station:

The cost of fencing corn fields may be from $1 to $2.50 less per acre than the husking.

It requires no more labor to prepare for subsequent crops fields that have been hogged off than those that have been treated by the ordinary methods of harvesting.

Hogs waste no more corn in field than when fed in yard. They pick the corn as clean as most men do in husking.

Three pounds of rape seed (per acre) sown in corn at last cultivation furnishes considerable succulent feed, which may take the place of high-priced shorts.

It is not expected that all corn raised to be fed off with hogs, but the amount they can clean up from the time it is nicely glazed until the weather becomes unfavorable may be economically fed in this way.

Hogs should not, as a rule, be turned into more corn at one time than they can eat up clean in two or three weeks. The shorter period is preferable.

On the 11th of this month our community was greatly shocked in hearing almost the sudden death of Rollin Vance, the only son of Mr. G. D. Vance, in whom the fond parents almost idolized and worshiped. Rollin was a light to the home and a comfort to their hearts and to know him was to love him. He was a cheerful, loving boy and if he had an enemy no one knew it, and he left home so cheerful in the morning going to mill. The loving words he last spoken to his sisters and fond parents will never be forgotten. He leaves a loving father and three sisters to mourn their loss. Let us say to the parents and three sisters, "Cheer up dear ones and prepare to meet little Rollin where sorrow and death never comes and where parting is no more.

A precious child from us is gone,
A voice we love is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.

Fertilizers too rich in nitrogen should not be applied to the field intended for oats, because the growth will be too rank and the production of grain will be retarded. The same is true in a very limited measure of corn.

Not how much, but how well, is a good motto for folks who are in the chicken business. Better to hatch and raise a small number of fine thrifty early chickens than to hatch a hundred or two and lose or stunt them for lack of care or suitable accommodations.

Cummins, for the sum of $100, with interest thereon at 6 per cent per annum, from the 17th day of January, 1906, until paid, and $10, costs, the undivided interest, formerly owned by G. D. Blair, in a tract of 351 acres of land hereinafter described, or a sufficiency of said interest to satisfy, said debt, interest and cost, and will at the same time and place, and to satisfy a judgment in favor of said Tutt against said Cummins, rendered in above styled cause, at the said May term, 1910, of said court, for the sum of $125, with interest thereon at 6 per cent per annum from September 14, 1905, until paid, and $10 cost of suit, I will sell the undivided one eighth interest formerly owned by Lucien Blair, in said 351 acre tract of land, or a sufficiency of same to satisfy said debt, interest and cost. The said Taylor and Moss have the right to go upon said lands, with teams, tools and machinery, and cut, manufacture and remove said trees and their products until September 12th 1912, but not thereafter. The homestead right of Elizabeth Blair is the right to use, and occupy $1,000 worth of said land, including the dwelling, thereon for and during her natural life. The said 351 acre tract of land is situated in Adair County, Ky., on the waters of Rock Lick and Harrods Fork, and is the same lands which John Blair, deceased, owned and lived upon during his lifetime, and upon which the Def't. J. R. Cummins, now lives and contains as aforesaid, 351 acres, and is described by metes and bounds, courses and distances in a deed from Sarah A. Strange, ex. to John Cummins, which is recorded in deed Book No 18, Page 573, of the office of the clerk of the Adair County Court, to which reference is made for a particular description. At the same time and place, and in order to satisfy a Judgment in the above styled cause, rendered at the May term, 1910, of said court, in favor of N. M. Tutt, against J. R. F. Roe; on the West by the lands of Wm. Loy; on the East by the lands of Henry Thompson and on the South by the lands of G. B. Brake.

Gradyville.

Arthur Rupe, of Breeding, was in our midst last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gilpin, of Sparksville, were shopping in our town last Friday.

J. A. Diddle spent one day in Greensburg the first of the week. Miss Mollie Flowers is spending a few days in Columbia this week.

The recent showers have greatly revived vegetation in the section.

Mr. W. G. Burton, of Glasgow, spent a few days of last week in our town selling lots in Arrow, Okla.

Mrs. W. M. Wilmore and her daughters visited her brother at Bliss one day last week.

Miss Mollie Hindman spent last week visiting relatives in Columbia.

The school building near this place is nearing completion.

Mr. Will Flowers, of Bliss, put in a day or so of last week hauling logs to our mill at this place.

J. A. Diddle and his son, Geo., put in last Thursday fishing with very good success.

Miss Creel Nell spent a day or so visiting relatives in the Milltown community last week.

Robert, a little son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Flowers, of Columbia, spent a few days of last week with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Moss.

Mr. Strong Hill is daily at work on his threshing machine. He says he will be ready for business by the time the people get ready for him.

The show at this place on last Wednesday evening was a very well attended. Every one present seemed to enjoy the occasion fine.

Brack Cain spent several days of last week in this community looking for cattle.

The mill at this place is doing a fine business. The proprietors keep on hand at all times a full supply of flour and meal and sell at the market price.

We take it that there is an average crop of tobacco set in this section, notwithstanding the scarcity of plants.

Gov. J. R. Hindman, of Columbia, called in to see us on his return from his brother's one day last week. The Governor informed us that for many years he had thought there was no place on earth like Big Creek, but during the last few years he was about to change his mind. He says about the time we get everything on this creek fixed up so we can take care of growing crops a big rain will come and wash off or cover up everything we are growing and take off our fencing etc. Notwithstanding all this, the Governor refuses to even price his farm. Such land as we have on this creek we can afford to plant and replant and then when the harvest time comes we gather in a bountiful yield. We must say right here that your reporter is not much of a farmer neither does he own a river or a Russell creek bottom farm, but he has grown oats this season on a piece of land that has put them up to a height of six feet and two inches. These oats are known in this section as the winter oats. This is no chimney corner talk, but an absolute fact. We all know W. L. Grady, the well-known horse man of this place, he will testify to the height.

Mr. Robert O. Keltner, one of our oldest citizens, and we must say here that no one can excel him in producing garden vegetables, had on exhibition here one day last week one of the largest Irish potatoes that has been grown in this section this season. He also has a very fine crop of wheat and one of the best mule colts in this section.

Rev. Scott, of Metcalfe county, preached at the Baptist church one night last week.

A majority of the wheat has been harvested and we are glad to say that quality is as good if not better than last year, and we think the yield will be as good if not better than last year.

Russell Springs.

Mr. Sylvanus Wilson has added greatly to the beauty of his home by building a circular porch and repairing the whole house.

I have 2,000 acres of land covered with stave, saw, and the stuff. R. T. Baker, Amanda, Va., Ky.

The dwelling house of Mr. Bram Burton, near Purdy, was destroyed by fire last Monday morning. The loss is considerable, on insurance.

It is said that three of the best crops of barley tobacco ever seen in Adair county, at this season of the year, are being grown by Messrs. C. C. Roe, Went Roe and E. F. Roe. They live in the Sparksville community.

Mr. Geo. K. Akin, who lives at Sparksville, had the misfortune to lose a very fine two-year-old German Coach colt last week. Distemper was the cause of its death.

Attention is called to the advertisement of H. D. Ingram & Sons, to be found on our third page.

There will be a Collier dog show at the Columbia Fair and a nice premium offered.

Walker Bryant sold Rollin Hart, a few days ago, a harness horse for $150.

The prodigals, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman Dohoney, returned home from Elida, New Mexico, last week. Mr. and Mrs. Dohoney are good people and they are now educated and will stay with us what little time they last.

Mr. C. A. Wilson our town marshal resigned last Monday and Mr. Levy Doolin was appointed on Wednesday. He ordered the town to clean up thoroughly which was immediately done. Now when our snake medicine arrives he must clean up. At any rate we are all tickled at the idea of Mr. Doolin being our Marshal.

Mrs. Harriet Cundiff sold her town property last week to Chapman Dohoney for $900.

Judge Flegm Christie, who has been dangerously sick, is thought to be some better at this writing. Bro. Christie is a fine citizen and we would be glad to see him out again.

Billie Hurt, of Columbia, was here on business. He is one of our old time Democrats and we have a warm feeling in our hearts for him.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hutchison of Cane Valley, wish to thank their friends and neighbors through the News for their kindness during the illness of their baby boy Arvin, and especially thanks to the kind physician who was so faithful at the bedside of their baby.

Prof. and Mrs. Huffaker and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cooper and little daughter, Edith, spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Neat last Wednesday.

Mr. Aaron Wilson has been on the sick list for several days.

Mrs. J. F. Reynolds was visiting Mrs. Cooper one day last week.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Baby's Own Remedy. It is a free trial bottle in open to any mother who will send for it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. The free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. J. Davis of 137 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Bellford, 1715 Cole street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is so useful in all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and for all who have something painful and unnatural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains no harmful ingredients. For the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. I explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address to Dr. W. H. Caldwell, 1100 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.
